Facilities

Campgrounds are typically at or near capacity on summer weekends, although summer weekdays usually have space available. All campsites are on a first come, first served basis.

Each campground has six campsites with tables, BBQ grills, and fire rings. There is one pit toilet at each campground. The campsites at Pine Mountain Campground are fashioned in a circle with a large open area in the middle; while the sites at Reyes Peak Campground are located along the southwest side of a ridge.

There is no water at either campsite. Make sure you bring plenty of your own.

During the winter, this area receives quite a bit of snow. The road to these campgrounds is closed to vehicles at Highway 33 during winter months for public safety and resource protection.

Vegetation

You will find Jeffrey pine, sugar pine, and white fir trees at these campgrounds. Along the outskirts, you will notice chaparral species. These species include manzanita, and California sage. You may also see some scrub oak. Wildflowers are abundant in the spring and early summer.

Wildlife

Keep your eyes open for red-tailed hawks and, if you are lucky, California condors soaring above the trees. Other birds in the area include woodpeckers and chickadees. You may also see some deer, bear, and coyote who live in the area.

Fire Use

Campfires are permitted in fire rings and BBQ grills depending on the seasonal fire restrictions in place. Please make sure your fire is completely extinguished when you are not present.

Campground Operations

Pine Mountain and Reyes Peak Campgrounds are operated by the Parks Management Company, under a Special Use Permit from the United States Department of Agriculture- Forest Service, Los Padres National Forest.
