

Welcome TO THE BLACK HILLS NATIONAL FOREST!

As you celebrate our nation's independence, remember that in the South Dakota portion of the Black Hills National Forest, you can have campfires ONLY in established campfire grates at designated recreation sites.

Before leaving, properly extinguish your campfire by drowning, stirring, and feeling to ensure it is cold to the touch. If it's too hot to touch, it's too hot to leave.

Do not park on dry vegetation or allow trailer chains to drag as these actions can start wildfires. Fireworks are always prohibited.

You can help my wildlife and ranger friends by keeping your camp or picnic site clean and packing out all your trash when you leave.

Together we can keep America beautiful and prevent unwanted human-caused wildfires.
