Recreation Fee Program Accomplishment Highlights 2018

Custom Stock Feed Bunks

Stock feed bunks completed project with volunteers

The Forest partnered with Last Chance Back Country Horseman (LCBCH) to install two stock feed bunks at Kading Campground. The campground accesses popular horse riding trails and feed bunks enable riders to better prepare their animals for the trek. The LCBCH offered 15 volunteers, heavy equipment, supplies and funds and the Forest contributed $3,800 in recreation fee funds to complete the bunks. These custom-made steel and concrete bunks should withstand harsh weather with little to no maintenance. Already the Forest has seen increased use at the trailhead and campground because of this extra feature.

Peeling Paint Fix

Monument Peak Lookout offers guests a spectacular 360 degree views of the Little Belt Mountains. Built in 1936, the Forest stopped using the lookout in the 1970s, and in 1999 removed its tower and placed it on a short, solid foundation to offer it as a rental. The lookout desperately needed freshening, so a crew of six scraped and repainted the entire cabin. Recreation fee funds paid for all materials including scrapers, brushes and paint for a total of $1500.
