

Recreation fees are an investment in outdoor recreation. Current and future generations will benefit as 95% of the funds are reinvested in the facilities and services that visitors enjoy, use, and value.

Accomplishments Provided with Recreation Fees:

- Supported campground hosts who provided visitor information and completed maintenance tasks at Castle Creek, South Fork, Fish Creek, Boyd Creek, Johnson Bar, Ohara, Selway Falls, Elk Creek, Little Boulder, Laird Park, Washington Creek Powell, Wendover, White Sands, Whitehouse, Wilderness Gateway, Apgar and Wild Goose campgrounds and Johnson Bar Group Site. These volunteers contributed well over 5,000 hours of work during the summer season.
- Extended operational season at Little Boulder and Elk Creek campgrounds.
- Funded River Rangers on the Wild and Scenic Salmon and Lochsa Rivers and provided visitor information and education and monitored resources.
- Maintained trails within the Salmon River corridor and Gospel-Hump, Frank Church-River of No Return and Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness areas.
- Funded crews who cleared trees that fell across trails. Completed maintenance projects on trails used by outfitters and guides, cleared a substantial number of trees fallen across trails.

Special Feature

Elk Creek Campground is nestled in a picturesque setting of mature pines less than a mile from the quiet town of Elk River. Only minutes from the largest waterfall in Idaho and the largest and oldest cedar tree east of the Cascade Range, this campground is perfect for your next get-a-way. In 2013, fee revenue was used to extend the operational season of this and Little Boulder Campground, providing more opportunities to camp with family and friends.
